Line spacing in the abstract is single. The abstract is concise (one A4 sheet), independent summary of the thesis. It has to be understandable as such, without the original document. It explains the contents of the thesis: the objective, methodologies, results and conclusions. The abstract is a public document, and therefore all confidential information must be excluded from it.

The sentences in a good abstract are complete, concise and precise. The author does not express his/her own opinions, but rather describes the thesis as an impartial reporter. No direct references to the original text are made.
