

Lappeenranta Academic Library and Lahti Academic Library are merging in August

Lappeenranta Academic Library and Lahti Academic Library will merge into one library by the end of August 2019.

Lappeenranta Academic Library was formed in 2011 when the Lappeenranta University of Technology's and Saimaa University of Applied Sciences' libraries merged. Now will start the joint library of the LUT Group; the new library will belong to the organization of LUT University. The name of the new library has not yet been confirmed.

During next autumn, the library services in Lappeenranta and Lahti will be pretty much the same as previous. Former library cards are still valid and Finna search services are working. The students and the staff of the universities can book a time for information service in Lappeenranta or for information skills clinic in Lahti.

Skinnarila Campus Library in Lappeenranta returns to the opening and service hours of academic year on August 26th.

The autumn opening times and staffed hours for Academic Library Industria (Mukkulankatu 19) and the opening times for Academic Library Scientia (Niemenkatu 73) will be updated during the summer. It is unlikely that there will be big changes to the current opening times.

The new joint library's rules and fees will be updated later.